

DST Systems

Providing sophisticated information processing, computer software services and business solutions to the financial services industry

Founded in 1969 as a division of Kansas City Southern Industries, DST was established to develop an automated recordkeeping system for the mutual fund industry. DST has supported the industry's continued growth and is the largest provider of third-party shareholder recordkeeping services in the United States today. Headquartered in Kansas City, Missouri.

One of DST's most valuable assets is the dedication of its associates. We believe in our people and their potential, so we invest in their success. Our ability to attract and retain quality associates who deliver exceptional customer service means we are better at understanding our clients' business and their unique characteristics.

DST is Solutions

Everybody is looking for the right solutions to their unique business challenges. These solutions need to complement your operating strengths. They need to be integrated, open, and flexible. They should improve quality and control. And they should leverage innovative technology to increase efficiency and strengthen customer relationships. You can find these solutions at DST.

DST is Technology

DST's products and services are enhanced by the integration of advanced technology and e-commerce solutions. At the heart of this are DST's Data Centers, including the Winchester Data Center. Winchester offers state-of-the-art facilities, hardware, maintenance, and support. Its computers can process more than 15,000 million instructions per second (MIPs). More than 100,000 computer operators are connected to Winchester through fully redundant telecommunications networks across the U.S., Canada, and the United Kingdom. Staffed 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, 365 days a year, Winchester has a self-contained power plant and is designed to withstand tornado force winds without interruption.
